"Certainly there are very real differences between us of race, age, and sex. But it is not those differences between us that are separating us. It is rather our refusal to recognize those differences, and to examine the distortion which result from our misnaming them and their effects upon human behavior and expectation."

- Audre Lorde

Historically our society has failed to recognize diversity. We have strived to become the “melting pot” nation, boiling down and blending individuals until everyone looks alike, talks alike, and dresses alike; ironic for a society that stresses individuality. As we move into our fourth century, one of the College’s endeavors should be to actively promote the awareness and celebration of diversity throughout our campus community. Unfortunately the rejection of diversity is institutionalized in our society. At a young age we are taught in order to treat everyone equally we should not notice one’s race, color, or ethnicity. Though this sounds like an ideal message, it has created a backlash against diversity. The meaning of the word “equality” has been distorted to also signify “sameness”. However seeing everyone the “same” often results in erasing and marginalizing many peoples’ experiences as a minority in our culture. It is time for us as a community to recognize and celebrate diversity.

agnostic /ag nas tik/ an unwillingness on available evidence to affirm or deny the existence of a god or subscribe to tenets that presuppose such existence.

The problem I have with organized religion is that it is an historical creation of “man”-kind, not god. The doctrines were created here on Earth, not in “heaven”. Religion is to a great extent male-centered and male-controlled with woman being subordinate. If god exists I’d like to think it is an essence rather than a person, and that it is found in us all.

Wrapped, Unwrapped

The woman who read the grains in your coffee cup was right
Every time you say "I love you" I take it and spread it on the table like a thick strip of gauze or muslin and smooth out the wrinkles. I rub out the warmth slowly; my hands absorb any moisture.
Then I reach into your chest and pull your heart, gently: I am not an animal.
I am not a woman when I take your heart and wrap the strip of cloth around it until it is blood-soaked and the muscle stills. I am the little girl in the window who has peeled her nightgown off, knowing none of the eyes that touch her bright nakedness can reach inside and take her.

The purpose of lesbian and gay activism is to build a world in which it need not exist. I can only hope that there will come a time in which no one has to have a “safe space” in order to openly express love for another person. There is so little real happiness - it seems to me that the relevant issue here is not what gender it is found with, but that it is found at all.

Under the direction of Shirley Roby and Carol Sherman, Orchesis produces one show each semester. The shows exhibit the beauty and artistry that make up dance.

W & M Choir and Chorus

A select group of singers made up of members of the choir, the Botetourt Chamber singers contribute their own special sound.

Dr. Frank Lendrim adds his own voice to those he directs.

In between their vast tours, the William and Mary Choir performs at home in PBK Hall.

Joining forces with the orchestra, the choir creates a stunning Hallelujah Chorus from The Messiah.

The women's chorus performs as a unit during the annual Christmas concert.

Chicago

As Billy (Donald Bledsoe) prepares Roxie for the courtroom, he tells her not to worry—as a star lawyer, he is prepared to “razzle dazzle” the jury.

The six merry murderesses of the Cook County Jail (Kathryn Van Meter, Lara Johnson, Shannon McClure, Darcey Donehey, Lisa Kulish, and Andrea Clark) recount the brutal murders they committed in “The Cell Block Tango.”

Surrounded by a chorus of fan dancers (Kathryn Van Meter, Katie Francis, Lisa Kulish, and Andrea Clark), Billy (Donald Bledsoe) tries to convince everyone that all he really cares about is love.

Roxie Hart shoots her lover--does she go to jail? Yes, but with the help of her lawyer Billy Flynn, she cons the city of Chicago into believing that she did it in self-defense. In a vicious publicity battle with Velma Kelly, Roxie seems to have the upper hand until her trial ends, she is declared "not guilty", and the city loses interest. Always resourceful, Roxie teams up with Velma and they become dancers in vaudeville--all either wanted in the first place.

After that he goes to the public library and finds the book "The Great Gatsby" by F. Scott Fitzgerald. He reads it and finds it so good that he decides to write a book about it. He writes "The Great Gatsby" and it becomes a best-seller. He then writes "The Great Gatsby" and it becomes a best-seller.

The William and Mary Bands continue to offer exciting performances for the College and the community. This past year was a real musical high.

In addition to its regular home games, the Marching B and travelled to UVa. The band made sure "The Beat Goes On" at the Homecoming '95 parade and special half-time show with the ever lovable Alumni Band. (Watch out for those skydivers!)

The Concert Band performed to a packed Trinkle Hall on Family Weekend. The Band was honored to participate in the first Friends of the College Concert in the Wren Yard. In November, the Concert Band presented a special performance featuring the Music Department Artist-in-Residence, Chrisine Niehaus in George Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue. The wild strains of Carmina Burana and the enthusiastic applause of a full house knocked the plaster off the ceiling at PBK at the Concert Band's spring performance. This concert also featured the very charming, very french guest conductor, Paul Vermel. (Oo-la-la!)

The Jazz Ensemble was also invited to perform for the first Friends of the College Concert. The Ensemble drew a large crowd during their annual appearance at "An Occasion for the Arts". Harris Simon, piano and blues harmonica artist extraordinaire, was the Ensemble's guest artist at their Spring Concert; which also featured a set of big band tunes made popular during WWII to celebrate the 50th anniversary of VE Day.

The Basket ball Band continued to fire up Tribe fans and rock William and Mary Hall. (Bruce Hornsby's mom loves us!) This year, the Band was so large, the Hall wouldn't hold us all!

Our Country's Good

In the 1700s, large amounts of convicts were sent from England to the work camp in Australia. At first, the convicts know nothing but misery. In an effort to impress his superior officers, Ralph Clark involves the convicts in a production of The Recruiting Officer. Though their efforts are met with opposition by some officers, escape attempts, and brutal treatment, their efforts are eventually successful. In the meantime, the manage to grow, fall in love, and regain hope in lives that previously contained none.

Using intimidation tactics, Major Robert Pakenham (Michael Crouse) tries to convince Lieutenant Ralph Clark (Allen Leiby) to stop his efforts to produce a play.

While Duckling (Tracy Larson) sulks, Harry (Kevin Cusick) rows her around the Australian camp in an attempt to get her out of her anger at him.

John Wisehammer (Tristan Oje) uses wordplay in an attempt to charm Mary (Kamara Thomas) into returning.

Having gained confidence through the play, Mary (Kamara Thomas) is able to reach out to Ralph (Allen Rein), the man she loves, even though he is an officer and she is a convict.

This horn player stands up to play after the Tribe has scored a touch-down. Marching Band requires long hours of practice for both in and out of the classroom.

...the new 1960s. Jane ... Bunthorne ... plans to ... into chang- ...

The twenty-twosick maidens change their adoration from Bunthorne to Grovesnor (John Schomberg)

Under the Command of the Colonel (Robert Ooghe), the members of the Second Platoon sing about how they are the pinnacle of perfection as soldiers

The Sinfonicron Light Opera Company, under the direction of Kathryn VanMeter updated this Gilbert and Sullivan classic to the 1960s and a world of beatniks, hippies, and mods.

Patience

The Major (Andrew Schmitt), Lieutenant Kennedy (Tristan Poje), and the Colonel (Robert Ooghe) trade in their army uniforms for the looks of Jimi Hendrix, Bob Dylan, and John Lennon in an effort to impress their love interests

Gilbert and Sullivan's Patience tells the story of Patience, a young girl coveted by the poet Bunthorne, who in turn is coveted by twenty adoring maidens, who are loved by the Second Platoon. Patience despairs of ever knowing what love is; she learns that she loves her childhood playmate Grovesnor. Alas, their love is not to be, for Grovesnor is perfect and to love him would be selfish. He may, however, continue to love her. After Patience turns down his proposal, Bunthorne decides to auction himself off to one of the maidens. Patience interrupts to say that she will accept Bunthorne's proposal. Bunthorne is elated; the maidens are angry at first, but eventually return to their soldiers. All is well until the maidens see Grovesnor walking through the forest; the maidens throw themselves at his perfect poetic feet. Their devotion is an irritation to both Grovesnor and Bunthorne, who wants their attention for himself. He and the plain Lady Jane concoct a plan in which they will scare Grovesnor into becoming ordinary. They succeed, Patience can now love him, and the maidens discard their pretensions and return to their soldiers, leaving Bunthorne to a life reading The Catcher in the Rye.

Rudy (Thomas Kelly) uses a cup of coffee to lure Max's one night stand Wolf (Jay Putnam) away from his live-in lover Max (Donald Bledsoe).

revelational project, featuring a story of the treatment of homosexuals during the Holocaust. The story is that of Max, a homosexual drifter who picks up lovers when he is drunk. One night he picks up Wolf, who leads the Nazis to Max and his lover Rudy. Max and Rudy flee and hide out until they are caught. On the train, Max is forced to kill Rudy as well as make love to a corpse in order to prove he is not a homosexual. At the camp, he meets Horst. Eventually, Horst is killed and after realizing that Horst taught him how to love, Max commits suicide in this moving play about love and struggle.

While holding the body of his lover Horst (Andrew Quinn, who has just been shot), Max (Donald Bledsoe) confesses the love that he dared to tell Horst about, if only he would live.

The Matchmaker

Thornton Wilder's The Matchmaker is a farce set in Yonkers. Horace Vandergelder has hired Dolly Levi to help him find a wife. He courts Irene Molloy but deserts her when two men (Vandergelder's bumbling clerks) are found hiding in her shop. To make up for this loss, Cornelius and Barnaby take Irene and her assistant Minnie Faye to dinner where Cornelius and Irene fall in love, Minnie Faye gets drunk, and Barnaby and Cornelius must dress as girls to avoid detection. Along the way, they tangle with such characters as Ermengarde, Vandergelder's niece; Malachi Stack, a drunk; and the delusional Miss Van Huesen.

While Cornelius (William Hargit) and Irene Molloy (Pamela Mason) are lost in a world of their own, Barnaby (Blake Keller), August (Kernit Kaleba) and Minnie Faye (Jill Twiss) are shocked that Irene has let Cornelius put his arm around her waist.

Miss Van Huesen (Amanda Rogers) listens to Ermengarde (Darcey Donehey) tell of how her uncle is standing in the way of her love for Ambrose (James Treglio).

Mrs. Dolly Levi (Lara J. Harris) describes the fictitious war that she has found for Horace Vandergelder (William Gild) even though she intends to marry him herself.

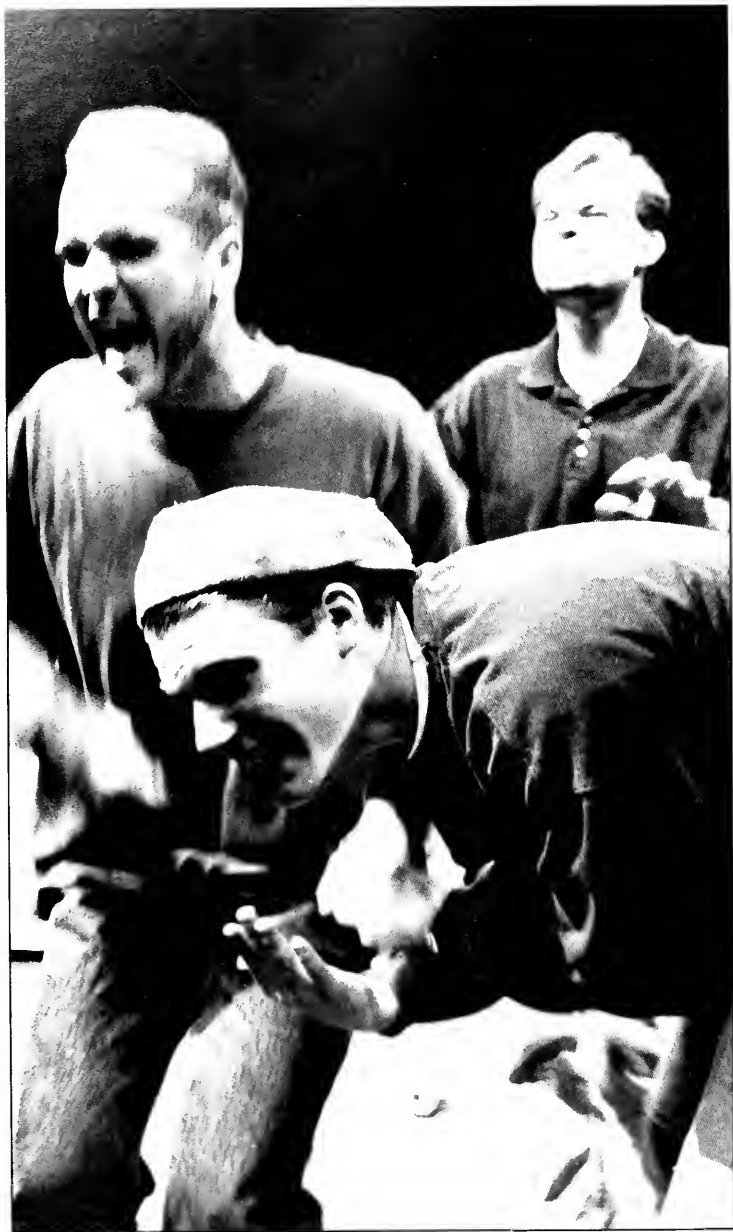

Horace Vandergelder (William Gild) leaves his two incompetent clerks Cornelius (William Hargit) and Barnaby (Blake Keller) in charge of the store while he goes to Yonkers.

In order to keep Vandergelder from discovering that they have snuck out to Yonkers, Cornelius creates havoc in the Harmonia Gardens Restaurant by knocking over the table.

Do Black Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up?

Covenant Players, under the direction of Tristan Poje, presented Do Black Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up?. This show revolves around life in Catholic school. It follows a group of eight people as they travel from grade school to adulthood. The changes they undergo as they grow up affect those around them. The tom-boy becomes the flirt, the little fat girl becomes a beautiful nun, the shy guy becomes a kind and successful father and husband. These changes take place under the watchful eyes of the priests and nuns until the kids become successful adults.

Women's Soccer

- Jenna Dee

The women's team started on a positive note with a defeat over the University of Virginia 1-0. Scoring for the Tribe was freshman Whitney Cali, who recorded her first collegiate goal. Junior Natalie Neaton led the Tribe to victory this season and also became William and Mary's all-time leading goal scorer. In addition, she broke three other school records this season, including all-time career leading scorer, most goals in a season and most points in a season.

Their season ended with a loss to Notre Dame in the NCAA playoffs, but not without setting some impressive records. They finished their season 17-4, and had four players named to the CAA first team. In addition, Head Coach John Daly was named CAA Coach of the Year for the second consecutive season.

Men's Soccer

- Jenna Dee

Starting the season off on the right foot, the men's soccer team claimed the title at the Tribe Title Classic. They defeated Delaware and Portland en route to victory. They also tied the best season start in Tribe's history, with ten consecutive wins over opponents that included VCU and UNC Wilmington. They went on to break this record with twelve consecutive wins by defeating East Carolina and The College of Charleston.

However, the team fell to James Madison in the CAA Championships. Named to the CAA first team were Wade Barrett, Paul Grafer, Vaughn Hughes, Chris Norris and Steve Jolley. Head Coach Al Albert was also named CAA Coach of the Year.

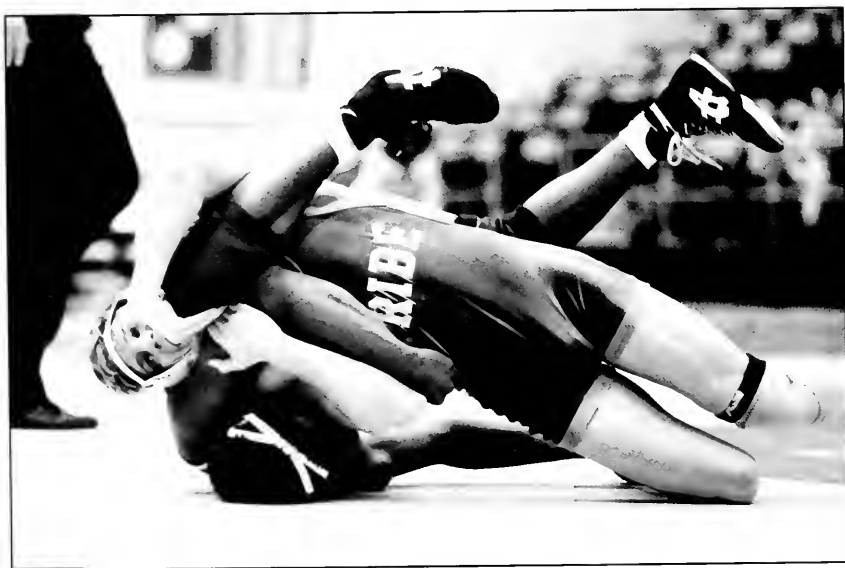

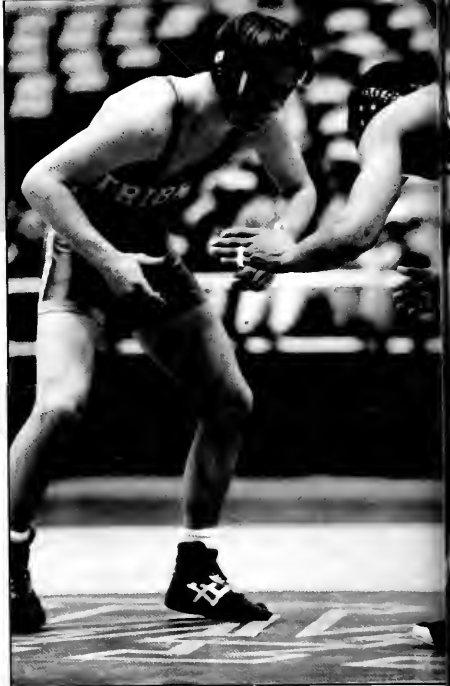

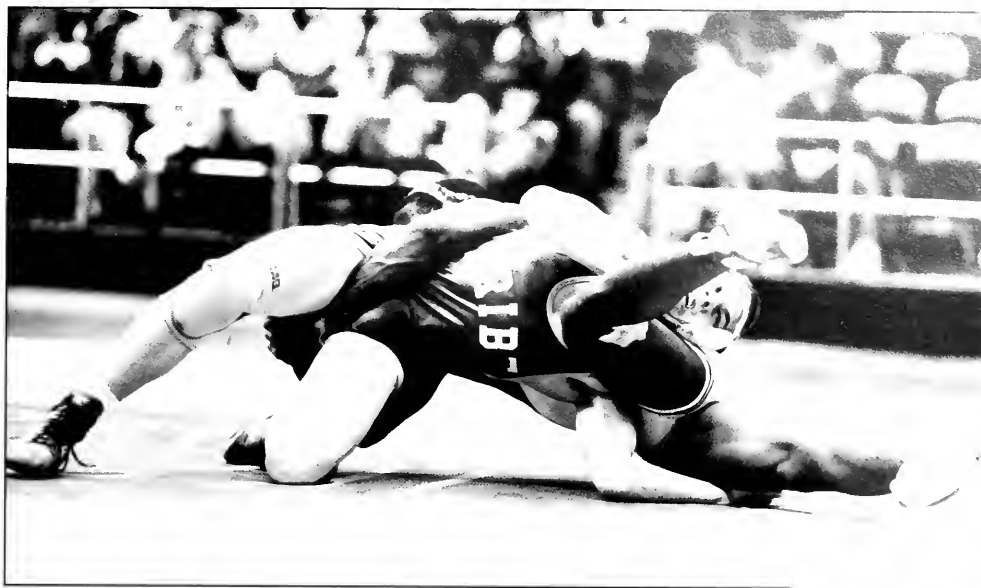

Wrestling

-J. Dee

Entering their last season as a varsity sport, the grapplers sought to make this a memorable one. Highlights for the season included a win over Virginia Tech which broke a seven match losing streak. Sophomore Khalil Abdul-Malik and senior Brian Knapp led the way with victories over their opponents. In CAA Championship action, Abdul-Malik received a "wild-card" draw to the NCAA Championships and Knapp lost his match. The Tribe finished last in the CAA Championships. Other strong grapplers for the Tribe included freshman P.J. Cameron and senior Noah Tempkin.

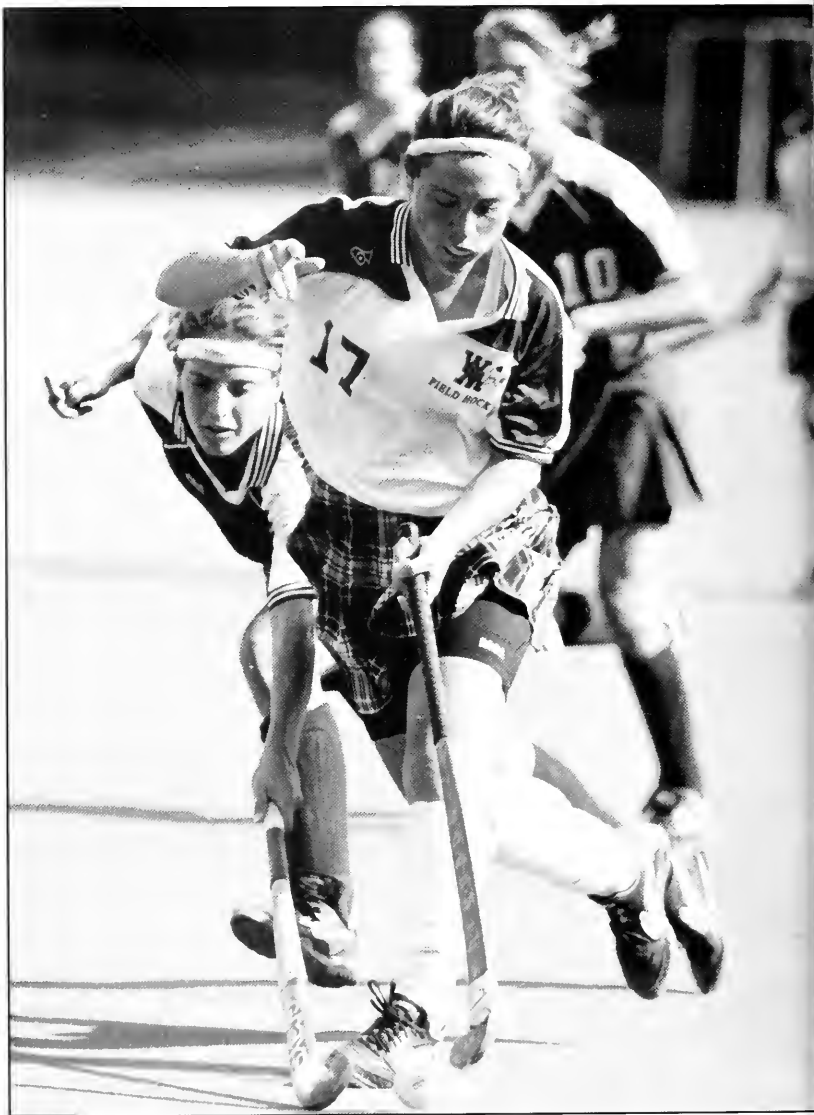

Field Hockey

*T*he Tribe opened its season with a six game losing streak until they defeated CAA Richmond 1-0. They then went on to win six consecutive matches defeating in the process 18th ranked UVa.

Leading the team this season were senior Barb Lagrotteria, who had the highest scored goals and earned All-South honors.

Also earning All-South Honors were teammates Cristina Limpens and Sarah Witkowski.

Limpens finished her collegiate career having scored 39 goals and Witkowski had recorded 212 saves during her career as goalie.

Volleyball

- Jenna Dee

*T*his season the women's volleyball team was led by junior Julie Amberg and seniors Heather Burke and Kathy Bell. Burke was named to the All-CAA first team and Bell to the second team. William and Mary won its first match of the season defeating rival Rice University 7-15, 15-5, 15-10 and followed it by pounding California-Berkeley. Other wins included James Madison, Virginia and UNC-Wilmington. However, they did suffer losses to Northwestern, Maryland and Fresno State. The team did not do as well as they expected, finishing 17-12 overall, but they have high hopes for next fall.

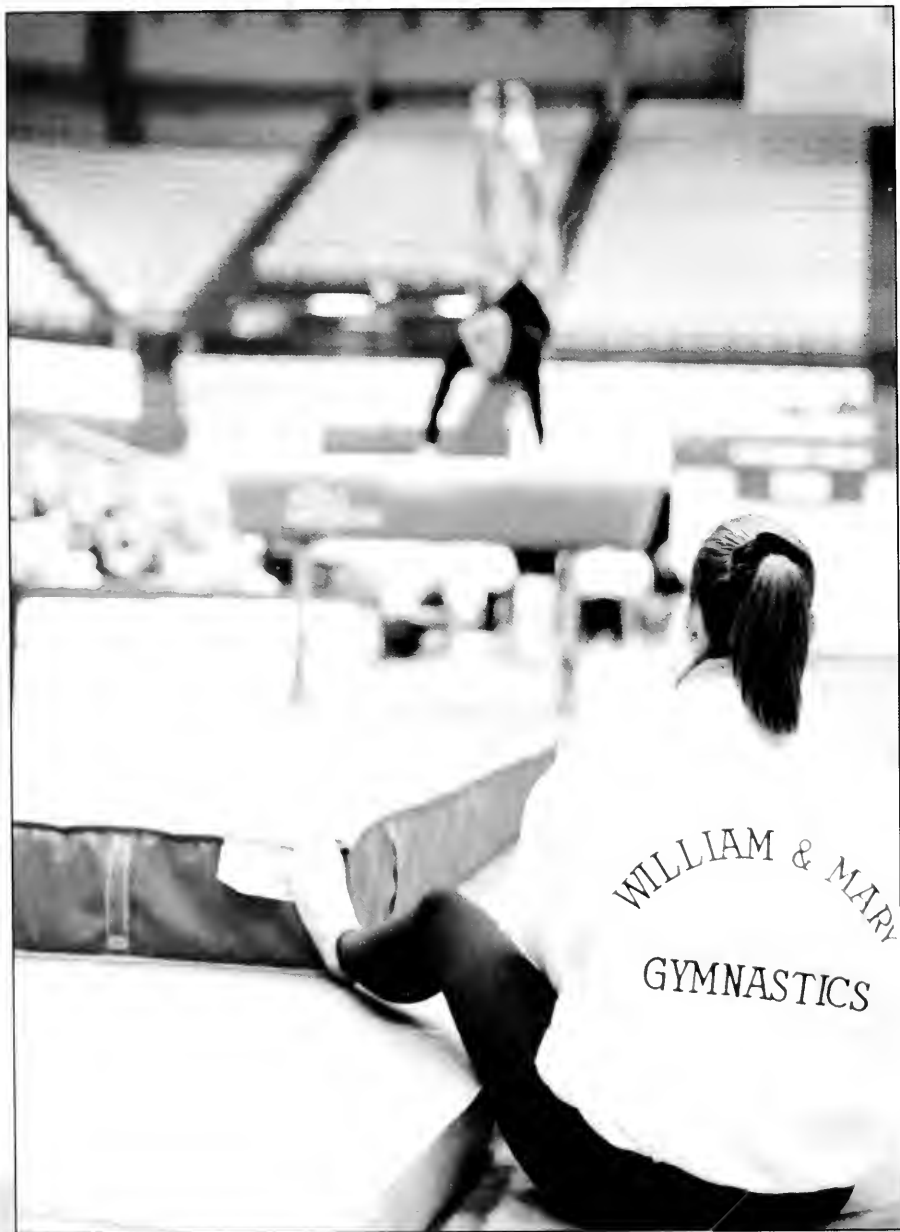

Football

Gymnastics

he W&M men's fencing team entered their last season of varsity play with high hopes. Coming off a year in which they had placed second in the MACFA conference and sent junior Marcus White to nationals, it seemed, with eleven returning fencers, they could pull off another successful season. The team succeeded, recording their sixth winning season in a row with a record of 12-4, and going undefeated in the conference regular season until placing second to John Hopkins at the MACFA finals. Senior captain Ben Sokoly and White led the squad, placing first and second respectively at the Virginia Cup State Championship, which the team won for the sixth year in a row.

Three of the team's losses came at the hands of traditionally strong teams, Notre Dame, Stanford, and North Carolina. Coach Pete Conomikes termed it "monster day," the fencer's toughest competition of the year. It was there that they had one of their most successful outings, beating Duke and posting respectable records against other schools. Because of the Strategic Plan, the team will be relegated to club status next year and "we could have been complacent, but we rose to the occasion," said White, proving the fencing team's pride in their successful history. White journeyed to NCAA regionals, where he qualified to return to nationals for the second year in a row. Looking to improve upon his tenth place finish sophomore year, White came away with an impressive twentieth place in a field he called "the toughest ever." Their varsity careers now over, the fencers hope to continue their success next year as they adjust to club status.

 William and Mary's women's tennis team had its best season ever. The team finished the season ranked No. 13 nationally based upon five wins against top-15 ranked opponents. By posting a 23-5 record, the team qualified for the NCAA Team Championships at Pepperdine University. The highlight of the season came when the team defeated the No. 1 ranked Georgia Bulldogs.

The Tribe netters were led by senior captain Katrin Guenther. The 1993 All-American lead the team in doubles and singles. Guenther paired with freshman Lauren Nikolaus, defeated a No. 1 nationally ranked duo from Georgia.

Also providing valuable victories, sophomore Johanna Sones and freshman Michelle O played in the No. 3 and No. 4 singles positions. In addition to team successes, Head Coach Brian Kalbas was named CAA and Regional Coach of the Year. Katrin Guenther was honored with the CAA Performer of the Tournament Award. Due to the generous $3 million-plus donation from IMG president Mark McCormack and his wife, tennis professional Betsy Nagelsen, the team can now boasts one of the most impressive tennis facilities in the country.

Alpha Chi Omega

Alpha Chi is more than just parties, friends, and good times. It is a special bond between women. It is amazing to see the way that we grow as people and as sisters from the time we pledge. Alpha Chi is a home away from home, and family through both the bad times and the good. Alpha Chi is memories that we will cherish for the rest of our lives."

-Alison G. Monroe

Our fundraising sale of Homecoming T-shirts this year was a great success. The drawing of the Crim Dell, designed by one of our own sisters, seemed to appeal to both alumni and students. The weather for the football game was beautiful and sisters enjoyed the project since all proceeds went to benefit our philanthropy: victims of domestic violence. We were thrilled to raise so much money so quickly."

-Carrie Euler

Having played an active role in setting Alpha Chi's social calendar I can honestly say that there's always something to do. In addition to events such as Mardi Gras formal, Destination Unknown, and fraternity parties, sisters also take part in the social activities of other Greek organizations. Alpha Chi Omega offers sisters a chance to unwind and meet new people."

Chi Omega

Chi Omega involvement went beyond the William and Mary campus. Chi-O sisters continued their dedication to benefit the area through community service and civic projects. A new civic project, "Chi Omega reads aloud," was established and implemented in the fall semester. Sisters spent one hour per semester reading stories to the children in the Williamsburg Day Care Center to teach the importance of learning. Chi Omega continued its annual civic project of Pie Omega where raffle winners were given a chance to throw a pie at a Chi-O of their choice. The fund raiser ended in great success and all proceeds were donated to Avalon Battered Women's Shelter.

It was an especially exciting year for the Chi Omega sisterhood as we celebrated our 100th year as a national sorority. On April 5, 1995, Omicron Beta actives and alumnae, as well as area alumnae, gathered for a banquet at the Williamsburg Marriott Hotel to celebrate Chi-O's birthday. The Centennial dinner was full of excitement in remembering years past and anticipating the years which lay ahead. Chi-Omega sisters look forward with energy and enthusiasm to begin another 100 years of friendship, scholarship, and leadership.

Delta

Despite what you may have heard sororities are more than bowheads and sing-alongs. Tri-Delts, for instance, are not all blondes. (from Mother Nature or Miss Clair!) Further, you'll never call us and hear, "Delta Delta Delta, can we help ya, help ya, help ya?" No longer are our parties considered "brother bonding." It's not our fault Disco Inferno went down in flames! The Tri Delta bid night is always a huge event, thanks to the size and solid support of Kappa Sigma.

Don't worry, we have an angelic side too. For Halloween, we joined forces with PiKA to provide safe trick-or-treating for the children of Williamsburg. Other projects included dog walking, holiday decorations for children with AIDS and raising money for children's cancer research.

We Deltas are full of surprises. You never know where you'll find us—from the Honor Council to Varsity sports; Intervarsity to community volunteering—because, after all, one letter says it all!

Delta Gamma

Delta Gamma had fun this year spoiling our 28 pledged with presents and parties. In addition to Bid Day parties, we had socials at the delis, date parties, set-up parties, after-hours, and three fabulous formals. Not to keep all the fun to ourselves, Delta Gamma joined Sig Ep for pumpkin carving Halloween fest, Delta Phi for a "root-radical" float building and a post-Homecoming bash, and Sigma Chi for some home-cooking at the DG house. We also teamed up with other campus organizations such as the Choir, Gentlement of the College, and Phi Tau for random parties and special events.

We also did our share of service work with Aid to the Blind and Sight Conservation, winning the campus philanthropy award for the second year. We supported other groups' events as well, getting rough at Sigma Pi football, getting dirty at Sigma Chi Dirty Daze, getting "green" with Kappa Delta's Shamrock project, and getting cultured with Delta Phi croquet. And who could not forget getting wet at our own anchorsplash. We raised over $1500 through our week long events of fun and excitement.

Delta Sigma Theta

The Mu Upsilon chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Incorporated was founded at the College on February 7, 1976. Mu Upsilon was the first Black Greek lettered sorority to be established at the College. Since its founding, Delta Sigma Theta sorority, Incorporated has upheld its promise to maintain a high standard of morality and scholarship among women. The founders would be proud of their organization today which has over 125,000 members worldwide, with chapters reaching as far as West Germany, Bermuda and Liberia.

The sisters of Mu Upsilon continued the tradition of public service initiated by their twenty-two beloved founders. Past projects have included the Breast Cancer Awareness Month/Seminar, Black Women Self-Esteem Seminar, Mock Interview, volunteering at the F.I.S.H. Bowl and the Sarah Gore Child Care Center, the annual Spaghetti dinner, the Parents' Weekend Carnation Sale, and cosponsoring forums with other campus-wide organizations. Reaching out to Williamsburg schools, scholarships have been offered to local high school students, and Mu Upsilon once sponsored an art exhibit displaying drawings created by the children of Matthew Whaley Elementary School.

Beta

Gamma Phi Beta started the year off with a bang. With a wonderful pledge class, a lovely new house, and strong, enthusiastic leadership, the year was full of great things to come. Gamma Phi sisters dedicated much time throughout the summer cleaning and remodeling to make our house a beautiful place to come ome to. The effort was definitely worthwhile. After an exciting Rush, we welcomed our newest pledge class with a cookout at Ford's colony in their honor.

We held our third annual Ultimate Frisbee Tournament to benefit Bob Levy's Send-A-Kid-To-Camp Program and organized our Spring Balloon Buy. Gamma Phi sisters donated money to many other causes and participated in the other Greek philanthropies as well. We made quite a name for ourselves coming in second place in Sigma Chi's Derby Days and first in Delta Gamma's Anchor Splash and Kappa Delta's Shamrock Project. The year was not all work though. We took time out to have fun through various 2-ways, 4-ways, date parties, date dashes, and loyalty circle events. Sisters danced the night away at Gator Gala and Spring Formal and talked the night away at Spring Retreat. We will definitely miss our graduating seniors who have given so much to Gamma Phi, but we know they will continue to achieve excellence and make great contributions wherever they may go.

Kappa Alpha Theta

The noble ideals for which Theta stands are not merely the objects of ritual but a living force that permeates the lives of its members and resonates between them. The circle of friends that results is unequalled in its sensitive concern for the potential of every sister to help create a world outside of Theta more like the community she has experienced within it.

-Blythe Semmer

The best part of being a sister in Kappa Alpha Theta exists in the closeness found among us. There is not one day that passes when I do not see a smiling face from my sorority. The humor is great, too. We all love to laugh, and any joke that comes up gets totally killed.

- Anne Pond

During Homecoming, five generations of my family were united. That weekend, I realized that the sisterhood I have found in Theta is universal, extending into the past and future with one constant: a bond achieved through commitment to being the best women we can be. My sisters are med students, business executives, and grandmothers. With this perspective, my concept of sisterhood metamorphosed from a mere word to a sincere feeling.

Kappa Delta

My first year of school has been filled with many wonderful experiences, one of which was pledging a sorority. The day I pledged Kappa Delta was both exciting and overwhelming as I suddenly found myself with over ninety new friends. I can honestly say that I can not imagine going through school without my awesome new sisters who lend an ear, lend their support, or just to laugh.

- Ashley Turman

It was great to once again receive so much support from William and Mary students, faculty, and administration and from the Williamsburg community for our annual Shamrock Project. We were thrilled to see so many people enjoying our a capella Shamrock Concert, Deli Night, and Elementary Student Art Show. We worked hard to raise lots of money for the National Committee to Prevent Child Abuse and had a fantastic time along the way!

-Jenny Roahen

For two years in a row we had a blast building a Homecoming Float with Sigma Pi all day and then partying with them all night. The Phoenix in 1993 rose to glory and our giant radio in 1994 obviously played the right tune! As a senior I am glad I have the memories from both years to take with me when I graduate from William and Mary. KD rocks!

Kappa Kappa Gamma

The Kappa pledge woke up to a crisp, clear winter day. Today she would become a full-fledged sister of Kappa Kappa Gamma! She thought back on the last semester and all the special times she had already shared with fellow members. First there was Rush, when Kappa not only took her Under the Sea, but also across the nation, to California, Texas and New York. She could still feel her elation when her bid from Kappa came. Since then the fun hadn't stopped. A definite high was meeting her Big Sis, revealed after a fun-filled Clue Week. They saw each other at many of the social functions, including Kappa Kidnap on the Queen Elizabeth at Virginia Beach, and Fall Retreat with its boot-stompin' good times.

Both put in a great deal of time towards philanthropy, participating in Sigma Chi's Derby Week, Kappa's own Rainforest Romp, which saved over 25 acres of rainforest this year, donating cans for Thanksgiving, tutoring adults, selling magazines, and hosting a Christmas party for wide-eyed kids, replete with Santa Clause. Now, after many pledge meetings learning about this Greek Organization founded in Illinois back in 1870, she was finally going to initiate! Then she would look forward to Kite & Key, Shamrock Week, the First Steps Easter Egg Hunt, Sister Week, Senior Week, and Monmouth Duo.

Phi Mu

Philanthropy was a strong focus for Phi Mu this year. Sisters made individual and group efforts to benefit members of the community and out chapter philanthropies. We sponsored a 2-year-old child in Egypt through Child Reach, and corresponded with him and his family. A car wash was held each semester to raise money for our national philanthropy, the Children's Miracle Network. Our biggest event of the spring, a 24-hour swing-a-thon, was held on March 31 and April 1 -- the first annual "Spring Swing Thing" at William and Mary. All proceeds were again donated to CMN. Many sisters volunteered their time tutoring at area schools, coaching children's sports teams, and working with outreach projects through Housing Partnerships. All in all, this year was a success due to the extra effort made by sisters in service to the community, the nation, and the world.

- Anne Harwell

This sorority has changed a lot since I first pledged, but at least one thing remains the same -- I can always find someone to turn to when I have a problem, someone to go to concerts or games with me, someone who will watch a stupid movie with me, or someone who will commiserate with me when we're dealing with stressful papers or exams. Though people have come and gone, the core of our sisterhood remains as strong as ever. I don't think that will ever change or ever fade away -- our bond and our sisterhood will shine brightly forever.

Pi Beta Phi

One of the most rewarding things I have done with Pi Phi has been my volunteer experience with Head Start. I think the weekly group trips there are anticipated as much by the sisters as by the kids. We read to the kids and do art projects with them. For me, it is one of the best things about being a Pi Phi.

- Allison Miller

As a freshman college can be very intimidating, especially to me. I love my new group of friends and some of my most fond memories are those of hanging out and getting to know my new sisters in Pi Phi.

- Cath Kriel

One of the benefits of Pi Phi is the social activities. I really enjoy the parties and the formals. It helps me get to know more people around the campus as well as bond with my sisters.

Alpha Phi Alpha

The 1994-95 academic school year has been a rebuilding time for our fraternity. Although low in number, brothers were still able to remain active in all aspects of campus life. Our activities included: helping initiate a voter registration drive, the Black Freshman Dinner, Alpha Movie Night, Step Shows for the Student Advancement Association Thanksgiving Food Drive, Participation in the James City County Head Start program and a host of other projects.

On a clear day, one can gaze out the north window of our picturesque estate on Armistead Avenue and read the specials of the day at Mama Mia's our favorite little watering hole in the ground. Glance out the south or east windows and observe the daily activities of the ladies of sorority court. St. Elmo's Hall, the center of fraternal activity for the brothers of Delta Phi, was a busy place during the 1994-95 school year.

The year started with a bang. Several successful parties pushed the bounds of the state's legal occupancy restrictions. Lake Matoaka came alive later that semester with our sixth annual Oktoberfest celebration, a tribute to German beer, food and culture. Our homecoming float, perched atop an eighteen wheel tractor-trailer, gained quite a bit of attention for us and our teammates, the sisters of Delta Gamma. Also notable as usual were our gold progressive and Wine & Cheese party.

This year brought a wave of new blood, with eight healthy young men entering the fraternity as pledges. The new fellas showed their integrity and character throughout the pledge season, contributing actively to fraternity functions and bonding as a class. Those who are fortunate enough to experience the brotherhood of Delta Phi know that we will make few bonds quite as solid as those we have made here. We will always remain a small, tight group who value the spirit of fraternity.

Kappa Alpha

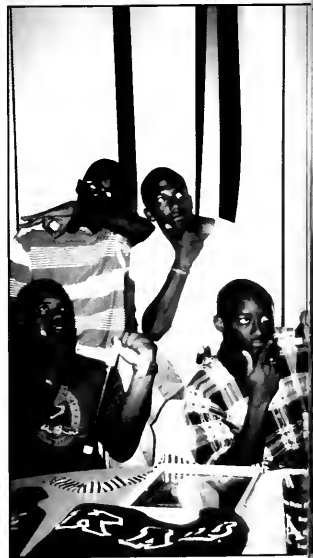

The Alpha Zeta chapter of Kappa Alpha Order continued a long tradition of excellence as it entered its 105th year at the College. The diversity and leadership of the brotherhood set the standard for what's left of a social life on this campus. Evidence of Kappa Alpha involvement could be found in any aspect of the college and community scene, whether it was athletics, philanthropies, clubs, parties, or music.

Kappa Alpha continued its tradition of philanthropy by participating in several activities and fund raisers. With the help of Tri-Delta, Kappa Alpha organized a local gold tournament to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Brothers were also involved in community services such as the Big Brother club, local schools, and senior centers. Kappa Alpha also fielded several competitive intramural teams, proving that the Earth Pigs were a force to be reckoned with. Led by the pitching of Doo Doo Dix coupled with the hitting power of Pieatrice P. Pierce and the Velocity Quagmire, the softball A-team fought its way to the finals. Strong performances by the floor hockey team, under the resourceful command of Maaah, the Snatchman and Li'l D, catapulted the team through another successful season.

Graduate brothers are seen here participating in Guide Right.

Not one, not two, but three offensive-minded Nupes achieved on the grid-iron for this year's outstanding Tribe football team.

Kappa Alpha Psi

Kappa Alpha Psi was formed on January 5, 1911, at Indiana University. The ten founding fathers founded the fraternity with the purpose of "achievement in every field of human endeavor." The founders were God-fearing, clean living, serious minded young men who possessed the imagination, ambition, courage, and determination to defy custom in pursuit of a college education. The Xi Theta chapter was founded here at the College on January 11, 1992. Being a service oriented organization, Kappa Alpha Psi is and has always been involved in community services through our Guide Right program, Kappa Alpha Psi's national service project. In the Williamsburg area, we have a continuing program at Matthew Whaley Elementary School.

As I look back upon my four years at William and Mary, I recall many fond memories that have resulted from their great friendship.

My four years at William and Mary would not have been the same had it not been for the friendships I've made within Lambda Chi. The brothers have made this place tolerable and are the reason I will look back on this place with fond memories. Spring breaks, nightly beer pong, and simply hanging out in the lounge with good friends is what brotherhood is to me and these good times overshadow the mere fact that we may have the same letters on our sweatshirts. The brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha continued their roles as leaders on campus with the 1994-95 school year. Resident Assistants, Orientation Aides, and officers of the Council of Fraternity Affairs (Brett Reinke as Vice-Chair and Greg O'Shea as Social Chair) fulfilled their positions as representatives of Pika. Our brothers also participated in many varsity sports including Swimming, Diving, Track, Gymnastics, Fencing, Wrestling, and club sports such as Rugby, Lacrosse, and Karate, as well as our recreational sports -- foos ball, beer pong, campus golf, and chinese poker.

During the fall semester, Bobbin Tuleya became president, succeeding George Sistrunk, and John Novogratz and Bobbin did a might swell job as Rush Chairs. Our weekly parties were a blast with naked beer slides and mantle dives to Blondie. Pike's Peak, Johnny Torch, and our winter formal were lots of fun, too.

The Phi Beta chapter graduated a large class in 1995. But a strong rush season, with a pledge class of sixteen will provide the chapter with strong brothers for the next several years. The newly initiated brothers add several other campus activities to an already well involved brotherhood. Some of the represented student organizations within the pledge class are: Improvisational Theatre, WCWM, the Shotokan Karate club, the International Relations Club, and the William and Mary theatre.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was well represented among campus leaders during the 1994-95 school year, with members of the Honor Council and the new Student Government, Resident Assistants and Orientation Aides. Brothers were also active in ROTC, Stairwells, Gentlemen of the College, and various Honor Societies. In addition, the house boasted Varsity and club athletes in baseball, gymnastics, wrestling, golf, swimming, and rugby. Athletics remained a high priority for the entire brotherhood, however, as we set our sights on defending the Intramural All-Points Championship we captured in 1993-94.

Peyan Hatcher, Matt Grim, and Stefan Ramsbott hang out at our National Fraternity Headquarters in Chicago.

As the year ended the Chapter bid farewell to 21 seniors and welcomed 19 pledges. Our dedication to our traditions and ideals and our commitment to brotherhood, however, ensure that we will continue to rise to new heights without missing a beat. Guided by "The True Gentlemen," united by friendship, and driven towards excellence, SAE continues to set the pace for the Greek Community.

Sigma Chi

My favorite part of Sigma Chi would have to be our social functions.

Happy Hour on Fridays is a time when everyone gets together to hang out after a week of academics. I don't view parties as just a time of drinking, etc., but rather as a chance for people to step away from schoolwork and have some fun before going back to class on Monday.

- Nakia Savage

Sigma Chi has meant a lot to me over the past three years. When I first came to school I was uncertain whether I wanted to be in a fraternity or not. My decision to pledge was one of the most significant choice I've made at William and Mary. Sigma Chi has surrounded me with close friends and plenty of avenues to explore.

- Brantley Gasaway

This past December I had the opportunity to dress up as Santa Claus for a group of underprivileged kids at the First Steps program. It meant a lot to me to give something to a group that is often forgotten about. Having grown up in upper class suburban America, I seldom came into contact with people who have very little. My experience as Santa Claus was both sobering and rewarding.

Sigma Nu

A fraternity is only as strong as its commitment to the community. Sigma Nu is dedicated to such perennial philanthropic events as Kids for Bowls Sake and the recently revived Volley for Life. In the Spring, Sigma Nu collaborated with SEAC and the SA tout together an Earth Day gala at the Lake Matoaka Ampitheater. Among our other philanthropies were Water for Children and a ska show benefiting Avalon, featuring the Pietasters.

Sigma Nu is a lifetime experience where strong bonds are made and being a brother means something special. Our sense of diversity is the source from which we derive our profound sense of brotherhood. With southern fried necks, dazzling urbanites, musicians, artists, flakes, pretty boys, deadheads, Monroe scholars and drunk tank regulars, Sigma Nu refuses to be stereotyped because it refuses to let social barriers preclude a strong and diverse brotherhood.

Sigma Pi

Since rechartering in 1990, the Alpha-Eta Chapter of Sigma Pi has emerged as one of the most unified and strongest brotherhoods on campus. As one of the two fraternities not on the row, Sigma Pi has fearlessly remained true to our ideals: determination to improve in all aspects, tight brotherhood above all else, and pounding to accomplish both at once. Sigma Pi prides itself on breaking the molds of typical Greek life; we are a group of men dedicated to diversity and character -- not the usual goals of a college frat.

Sigma Pi started the 1994-95 year right -- with something we like to call "Saturday Circuses." Where else can you find twenty sweaty gents sitting in the sun on a Saturday morning, basking in cocktails and brotherhood? In addition to these debaucherous but important times, the Alpha-Eta Chapter accomplished a number of very serious goals. Our inaugural Sigma Pi Nerf Super Bowl was a smashing success, proving once again that there isn't anything sorority girls can't do when they put their minds to it (including breaking any or all body parts for the good of the team). All of the sororities on campus fielded one or more expert squads, and there were a large number of independent teams involved as well, which contributed to the melee of blood, sweat, tears, and brew that is sure to become a tradition that has no rival.

Theta Delta Chi

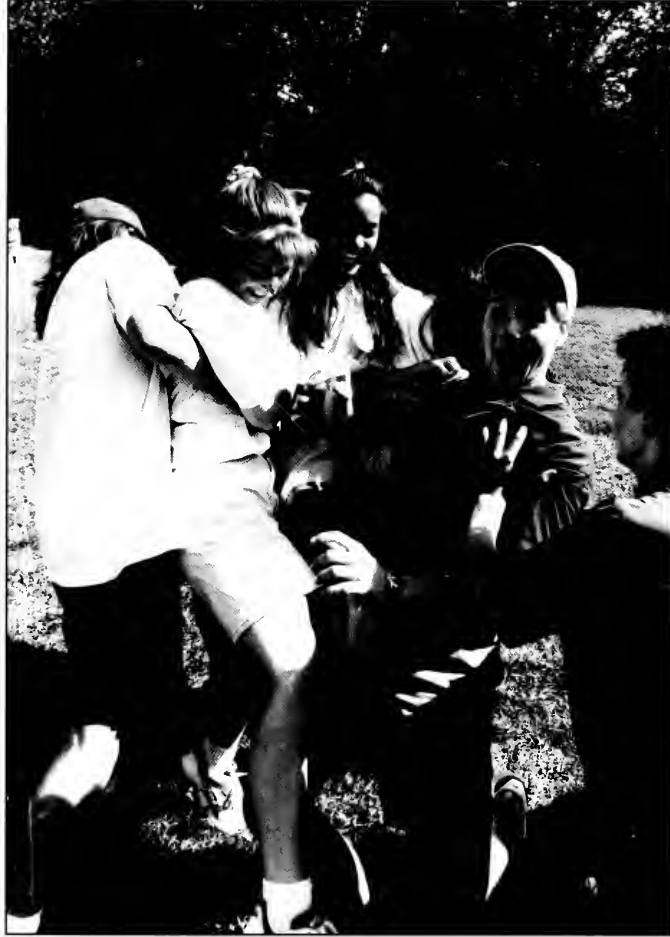

The brothers of Theta Delta Chi have been out in full force this year, dominating varsity and intramural athletics as well as he social arena, all while capably stretching the upper limits of academic achievement. Tradition triumphed over absurdity this fall as the Theta Delts heroically maintained the rituals of Bloody Breakfast before swarming to the Tribe football games on Saturday mornings. Harassed and singled out by the Fuzz, the Tribe's loudest fans kept their Tribe pride and would not back down.

As the year rolls to an end, the brothers can be found lounging out on the only real front porch or drinking free beers at Busch. After graduation, the brothers will pack their bags and travel down to Nags Head for one last big party with the graduated seniors. After such an exciting year, Theta Delta Chi confidently looks forward to coming back and reassuming its position of power in the 1995-96 school year.

Accidentals

Women's a capella vocal ensemble which performs a wide range of music for both campus and non-campus sponsored events.

The Accidentals had another exciting and productive year. The student-run women's a cappella ensemble has grown in size, style, and popularity since its debut at the College in 1992. In addition to singing, the group shares a strong bond of friendship which they strengthened on tour and at nights out at the delis. Though the group will lose the last of its founding members to graduation in May, the future looks bright in the hands of the remaining members. Good bye and good luck to those who are moving on, and lots of luck and support to those staying to continue the tradition.

Christopher Wren

Co-ed singing group that specializes in chamber and madrigal music.

Founded in 1987, the Christopher Wren Singers were the first student-directed, student-run a capella group on campus. The singers perform on and off campus, and have taken their sound as far north as Connecticut and as far south as Texas.

The Gentlemen are the College's oldest all male a capella ensemble and are known throughout the state of Virginia for their smooth harmonies and hilarious antics. Under the direction of Charlie Hall ('96) and Adam Shoemaker ('95), they have sponsored and participated in numerous concerts, including the all new Lollacappella, invitationals with UVa, Richmond, and Northwestern. In their snappy blue blazers and impeccably-knotted ties, they bring a new meaning to the word "Gentlemen".

Asian Student Union

An organization dedicated to promoting Asian culture and history

This year the Asian Student Union sponsored many activities on campus including conferences, lectures, and other campus wide events like "Taste of Asia". The goal of promoting the awareness of Asian culture and history is enhanced by the activities of individual cultural groups. The Chinese Student Association, Indian Cultural Association, Filipino American Student Association, Korean American Student Association and the East Asian Studies Association all work together to achieve these goals of greater awareness of Asian culture and history within the community.

Members pose in front of the groups homecoming float.

In close association with the Asian Student Union, the Reves Center for International Studies, the Office of Multicultural Affairs, and other multicultural groups, the Chinese Student Organization strives to promote racial harmony while encouraging multicultural diversity. It endeavors to provide ample opportunities to experience Chinese culture in a fashion enjoyable by the entire William and Mary community. CSO accomplished these goals by sponsoring the Chinese Moon Festival, Chinese Movie Nights, Calligraphy classes, and Chinese Language Tables. CSO also co-sponsored the first Annual Lunar New Years Banquet, and the Chinese Lantern Festival, and was an active participant in the annual Taste of Asia.

FASA

Filipino American Student Association

first row: Jennifer Conje, Julia Takafuji, Maritess Pasana, Amante Legaspi second row: Angie Blount, Raissa Remandaban (President) third row: Maya Larson, Synta Kelling, Steven Lim

FASA's main objective is to promote a greater understanding and appreciation of the rich Filipino-American culture to all students of the college and community. FASA's main emphasis is on cultural awareness and the organization focuses on the contributions Filipino-Americans have made to American society and current issues affecting them today.

Some of the major club activities include participation in the annual Asian-American Conference in the fall and Taste of Asia in the spring. Other activities include social activities within the club and with other campus organizations, community service projects in Williamsburg, trips to Filipino restaurants and other places. FASA's major goals are to increase its visibility on campus through more cultural activities, and to participate in cultural programs with Filipino-American organizations from other colleges and universities.

Come celebrate with us!

It was a good year all around for the CSA. Within such a large group there was enough diversity and opportunities for everyone. Whether you were interested in friends and fellowship, spirituality, or social outreach, the CSA had plenty of chances to serve your needs.

The Spring Break trips to Appalachia to repair housing or to Covenant House in New York to work with neglected street kids, helped us to gain a new perspective. We were all sad to find out that this would be the last year in Williamsburg for our campus minister, Father Charles Kelly. After eight years here, he will be reassigned as Rector of Saint Mary's Cathedral in Richmond. He has had an incredible impact on all of our lives, and next year he will certainly be missed.

International service organization for College men and women which develops future leaders and active citizens concerned with improving the quality of life on earth.

The 1994-95 school year proved to be another productive, yet fun and wacky year in Circle K. We added some new projects this year, which included calling William and Mary alumnus for the College Annual Fund, and helping out women and children at Avalon. In October, we got into the Halloween spirit by spooking kids at the Haunted Forest. We kept going with Eastern State Dances, singing carol-o-grams for Christmas, and dressing up as clowns for the amused Kiwanians at their annual Snowball fund raiser. In the spring, among other things, we had District Convention, selling Human-i-tees and inducting new members to keep us happy. As the year closed, we congratulated the new officers, had our annual spring picnic, and fondly looked back on a memorable year.

The Flat Hat

The weekly newspaper of the College written and edited by students.

The wild and crazy staff of The Flat Hat take time out of their hectic weekly schedule to smile and say cheese.

This year's staff: Logan Wallace, Lee Banville, Mike Hadley, Michelle Miller, Betsy Rosenblatt, Neil Rosenblatt, John Kolman, Elizabeth Callender, Anne Pond, Toni Fitzgerald, Scott Borders, Kate Brammer, Scott Lisman, Wade Minter, Mike Coon, Chris Morahan, Brett Tobin, Susan Lacefield, Chumpkin, Denise Almas, Mary Beth Budnyk, Caroline Castle, Jonathan Hunley, Samantha Levine, Amey Sadler, John Encarnacion, Vanessa Howells, Jane Maier, Pablo Sanfransisco

Admist their mess and clutter the staff is able to produce their newspaper on time every week.

Founded in 1911, The Flat Hat has been providing student-produced newspapers for the good part of this century. Nowadays we recieve only partial funding from the College and cover the rest of our costs from advertising and subscriptions. This year's staff provided information to the student body on everything from the Strategic Plan to the extermination of the wrestling and fencing teams to George Allen's plan to sell the College Woods at the equivalent of a cattle auction.

Fearlessly led by editor-in-chief Lee Banville, The Flat Hat continued in its continuing tradition of fine journalism, searching only to get the facts out to the students. Staff members stayed up late Thursday nights desperately integrating copy, headlines, graphics, and photos just trying to escape the office before their 8am Friday classes begin.

William and Mary Review

The College literary magazine published twice a year by students.

Top: John Schomberg, Seth David, David Archer, Jason Weedon,
Fred Swanson, Laura Sims, T. Moore, Joriel Foltz

Bottom: Greg Politzer, Audrey Manring, Jennifer French

The hard working student staff, led by Laura Sims, followed the Review's award winning tradition by selecting only the finest literature, poetry, and art. Such "big" names as Julian Edney, Jud Wolfskill, and Howard Prescott were present, while younger artists were given a forum for new exposure. Although the Review has maintained a tradition for quality and excellence in the literary world, it remains the duty of our campus community readers to enjoy the fruits of our efforts.

strategic planning committee

Throughout 1994, the Strategic Planning Committee met to work out its proposal for the vision of William and Mary leading into the 21st century. In the Fall of 1994, they released their report, and they received a tepid response. The Plan called for administrative cuts, elimination of two varsity sports teams, discontinuation of several graduate programs, and the "prohibitory" status of the Dance department. In addition to the cuts, the Plan also encouraged increased resources for the new undergraduate curriculum, a greater focus on interdisciplinary programs, expansion, renovation, and automation at Swem, increased efficiency, a rededication to public service, and a general commitment to make William and Mary the best small, public university in the land.

The Committee, chaired by Provost Gillian Cell, listed only one undergraduate among its membership. Many students were unhappy with this lack of representation in light of the centrality of students to a university. After the report was released, students had further complaints. Minority students were unhappy with the Plan, mostly because none of the 25 members of the Committee were of a minority. Those students also complained about the proposal to cut the wrestling team, which has significant minority representation. Other students also decried the cutting of wrestling and fencing teams. Those people and many others packed open hearings over a two week period to let their voices be known. Although many sympathized with the arguments of the athletes, budget and gender equity issues ultimately left the teams cut. Many students were disappointed with the final version of the Plan which left many controversial provisions unaltered, but students were pleased with the improved diversity of the Implementation Committee. Hopefully, the Strategic Plan will yield beneficial results to William and Mary in the years to come. -Sam Ozeck

To: Provost Cell, Chair of The Strategic Planning Committee

From: Concerned African American Students

RE: Lack of diversity on the Strategic Planning Committee

We are pleased about the goals of the Strategic Planning Committee concerning diversity. However we rue the fact that there is no diversity on the Strategic Planning Committee itself. To wit; there is not a single African American or any other minority on the committee. We ask you Provost Cell, how would you feel if there were no women on the Strategic Planning Committee?

To us, the committee's recommendation smacks the slave owner's telling the slaves how their labor will be employed. In this instance, the committee decided how the funds are to be distributed and later informed the students.

We feel there is only one way to remedy this abhorrent lack of diversity on the committee. The committee must be disbanded and all recommendations tabled until a new, more diverse committee (one that looks like America) is selected to revisit the issues.

Very truly yours,

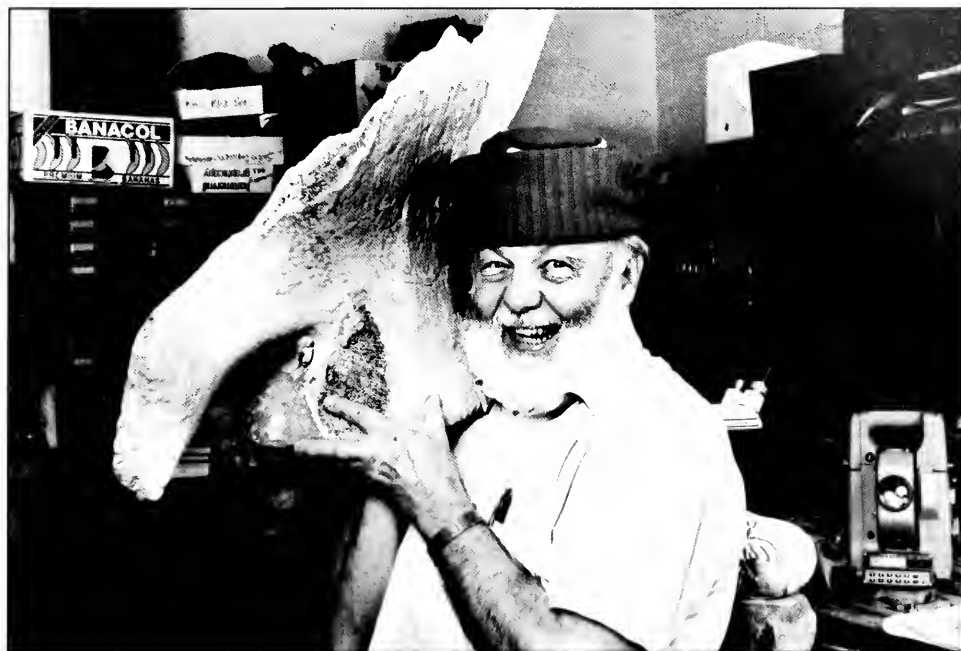

Concerned African American Students

Y'all used to be a lot of sweet names like sweetie, sweetie pie, honey, darling, cupcake, baby eyes, dimples, honeybun, blue eyes, peachy keen, and jelly bean. But this year I changed everything. Now you and I both are all Boos, which is a term of endearment. But on a serious note, always remember that it's not who you are, but how you treat others and showing how much you love each other. "Love is the key!"

Life is an incredible adventure and teaching is a means of sharing this experience with others. It is exciting to go into the field with others to study natural features and processes and to decipher the history recorded in the rocks, landforms, and fossils. The antiquity of the Earth and the diversity of life that has inhabited it through the ages continues to deeply impress, astound, and humble me.

Life is fragile and the Earth and its inhabitants face major problems, some natural and some of our making. It is our duty to use our knowledge to understand these situations and to apply our knowledge to their solution.

Although my years at the College of William and Mary precede those of multiculturalism in higher education institutions but come after those of Thomas Jefferson, I feel much kinship with both as an American of Japanese ancestry. It's been a privilege to be a steward of students who have followed in Jefferson's footsteps over what turns out to have been a highly eventful three decades. In 1955 there were the barest of handfuls of African American undergraduate students and the number of Hispanic and Asian American students was even smaller. It affected the way I conceptualized my courses with such a homogeneous student body. The changing composition of students has affected what I do with my sociology courses. In my American Society course, I have all students track their immigrant heritage. As we at the College look ahead to the implementation of the new undergraduate curriculum and these different times, the faculty consciously has incorporated non-Western offerings. Beginning in fall 1996, I too plan to take part in offering such a course for an increasing diversified America.

The wide ranging subject of anthropology continually fascinates me. My research, writing, and teaching right now focuses particularly on understanding how human language and thinking evolved from the systems of communication and cognition in other primates, our closest living relatives. After studying monkeys on the African savanna and great apes (chimpanzees and orangutans) in captive situations, I am convinced that we humans are not as unique as many of us like to think! Students at William and Mary are great fun to teach - both in the classroom and during completion of independent research projects (involving both observations of and data analysis concerning nonhuman primates) - because they are open to my views on human uniqueness, but not afraid to bring up novel perspectives to them, change them, and make something new.

I like to think I'm pretty unthreatening for a self-proclaimed "activist". It's taken some years of work, but we have a pretty healthy community at William and Mary, one that's mostly proud to integrate the gays and lesbians among the faculty, staff, and student body. We've got the Gay Student Support Group, Alternatives, SAGE, and W&M GALA (our very successful gay alumni organization) - there's even a Gay Bible Study Group on campus. It does take a constant effort to educate each new class as it arrives and we're only about half way there in terms of acceptance. More gay faculty and staff should come out to provide good role models, and the College's administration is still afraid to live up to the accepting spirit of the rest of the campus.

Success

"To laugh often and love much; to win the respect of intelligent persons and the affection of children; to earn the approbation of honest critics and to endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty; to find the best in others; to give of one's self; to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch, or a redeemed social condition; to have played and laughed with enthusiasm and sung with exultation; to know that even one life has breathed easier because you have lived — this is to have succeeded."

Editor's Notes

Probably for the first time in a very long time, this book was completed on time! I am extremely proud to have edited this volume of The Echo and it would not have been possible without the help of my entire staff and support of my friends.

My photography editor Joseph Kum went beyond the call of duty. Without his skill and knowledge this book would not have been possible. He did a great job producing all of the wonderful photos in this book. I'd also like to thank Brett Zwerdling for all of his hours spent in the darkroom "dodging" and "burning" photos for me. These two are the greatest "babes" (sorry Brett) and probably two of the best photographers to ever grace William and Mary. I wish both of them the best of luck in the future - and here's to more saunas and crazy nights in the Sunken Gardens!

I would also like to thank all of my section editors for doing a job well done. They all possessed an incredible amount of patience waiting for photos to be developed and for me to get my act together. Laura Sowers did another great job with the Greeks section this year and her layout design abilities have been an asset this year. I especially want to thank Ashley Donley and Alan Dawkins for stepping in and taking over the Sports section this year.

And Allison I am proud that you were able to produce your section for yet another year amidst all of your play rehearsals and busy schedule. Violet Cox was able to design a new layout for the Faces section this year and finished her entire section on time for me.

Sam Ozeck, my business manager, though at times we got to one another, I do appreciate all of your help and support throughout the year. I enjoyed getting to know you and I wish you the best of luck in the future!

I would also like to thank Joe Boocks, our Josten's representative. I look forward to working with you for the next two years and I appreciate all of your help and guidance in producing this book.

Also the Candid Color folks up in Arlington made my life a little bit easier. I am eternally grateful to Kurt Araujo for removing all of those "commas" for me and to Ken MacKeown for producing our color photography. The people upstairs in Student Activities also helped me run this whole show a bit smoother. A great big thanks to Ken Smith, Linda Williams, JoAnn Darling, and Anita Hamlin.

I dedicate this book to everyone who is striving to make this world a better place to live. I would like to thank Vicki Kirsch, Deborah Green, Nancy Gray, Catherine Clifford, Ranse Ransone, Natalie Weber, Devon Meadows, and Kim Davenport for helping me see the "light" at the end of the tunnel and being supportive.

And last but not least, I would like to thank one of my best friends in the whole world, Steven Wandrei, for helping out with his section and for being a shoulder to lean on. You and Kim have been the greatest!

Pablo, the book is yours! Best of luck...
